

HELD UP BY THUGSA Man Murderously Assaulted on Fulton Street*HIS FACE HORRIBLY BRUISED*George Daniels Is Held Up By Foot Pads, Who Handle Him in an Unmerciful Manner.

George Daniels called on Dr. Catlin last night about 11:30 for surgical treatment. His nose was broken, his face and shirt front were covered with blood, and numerous contusions were visible on his face and forehead. The blood trickled down from his nose and mouth, and he carried a handkerchief that was thoroughly saturated. His nose stood awry, a bulb caused by the broken bone stood out on one side and the bridge was flattened to his face. The eyes of those present were attracted with amazement as he walked into the office. Upon being questioned as to the cause of his condition and appearance he said he had been knocked down and unmercifully kicked by thugs who attacked him on Fulton street about 11 o'clock. He was walking along near the electric light works when he met three strangers one of whom pushed against him and pushed him nearly off the sidewalk. He asked the party if the sidewalk was not wide enough for them to pass. No sooner had he said this than he was struck a stunning blow between the eyes, which felled him to the sidewalk. The footpads then jumped upon him and pummeled him until he was nearly insensible. They were getting in their murderous work effectively when the sight of an approaching sign frightened them and they took to their heels, leaving their victim covered with blood. The young man said he had no suspicion as to who his assailants were, as he had no means to know.

SCALED THE WALLS AND ESCAPED.George Travis, an Iowa Convict, Makes a Successful Break.

The police department received word last night from the prison authorities at Iowa that George E. Travis scaled the walls of that institution about 10 o'clock and made his escape. No particulars concerning the circumstances of the escape were given as the telephone worked badly and hurried giving details. Travis was serving a two-year sentence from the Wisconsin county court for obtaining goods by false pretenses. He is described as being a man 31 years of age, fair complexion, gray eyes, dark hair, high forehead, small mouth and chin, small nose on left ear, 5 feet 3 inches in height, and weighing 200 pounds. When he escaped, he was dressed in prison clothing and wore a pair of blue overalls.

WARNER GOES FREE.The Jury Acquits Him of the Charge of Larceny.

In the case of the People vs. Alons Warner, whose trial concluded in the superior court yesterday morning, the jury remained out but five minutes and then returned a verdict of not guilty. Warner was charged with embezzlement and larceny. He was an employee of John H. Colleton. Colleton entrusted a pair of horses, a carriage and double harness to Warner and directed him to trade the outfit to the best advantage. Warner made a tour of the surrounding towns, made the trade, and the bargain netting Colleton he claimed that Warner had swindled him out of the worth of the team.

OBJECTION TO CLERK HIRE.Bill of Exceptions Filed in the Granger Receivership Case.

In the matter of the receivership of A. Mather Granger a bill of exceptions was filed by Peter Boran with the clerk of the court yesterday, from which it appears that Cincinnati, New York, Cedar Rapids, Ia., Oshkosh, Wis., and Minneapolis creditors object to the allowance of $2043.24 for clerk hire, the allowance of $403 for typewriter, $375 for traveling expenses, $1300 for salary, $1122.95 for attorneys and other items of lesser interest.

Sustained the Decision.

About a year ago Charles Bateman, charged with indecent exposure, was convicted in the police court. From this decision he appealed to the superior court, which sustained the action of the police court. Not being yet satisfied he carried his case to the supreme court, where it was argued yesterday, and the decision handed down sustaining the decision of the lower courts.

Asks Heavy Damages.

Benjamin Wellman and Amanda Wellman, by their attorney, C. H. Gleason, bring suit by filing a declaration on bond against Loomis K. Bishop, ex-sheriff, Don A. Leisner, Henry Spring and E. S. Pierce, asking damages in the sum of $10,000. The suit grows out of a refusal on the part of a deputy to pay a judgment of six cents and damages, obtained from the recovery of replevied property. It has hung fire in the courts since March, 1891.

They at once came to the conclusion that the little one had died from suffocation, that they had covered its head too closely during the night.
